WANT TO KISS THE BRIDE.

The West Virginia Conference, in Sees Deer Park, Appoint a Committee Congratulate the Precisions' and Wife. Congratulate the President and Wife.

DRER PARK, MD., June S.—The West Virginia Conference of the M. E. Church is in section here. At this morning's session, after prayer-meeting, Mr. Hoye, a'member of the conference, arose and offered the following resolution: "That in consideration of the fact that President Cleveland and his fair young wife are now at one of the cottages of the B. E. O. ratirood, I move that a committee of five be appointed by the chair, with Brother Engle as chairman, to wait on the President, and communicate with him, looking to an interview, the time of which to be fixed by the President." Bome member suggested that the committee consist of bachelors, and that they congratulate the bride, and kiss her for "Deer Park and the Methodist Conference." The Conference laughed at this idea, and then a mem-ence laughed at this idea, and then a mem-ber from the village said that he did not think that Mr. Steven B. Elkins would like think that Mr. Steven B. Eikins would like to have the President's privacy intruded upon. Mr. Eikins had arranged that the President's visit should be quiet, and the member was of the opinion the Mr. Eikins' wishes should be respected, "I am a Demo-crat," said Mr. Hoye, "and voted for Mr. crat," said Mr. Hoye, "and voted for Mr. Cleveland of my ewn free will. Mr. Elkins supported Mr. Blaine, and is not a friend of Mr. Cleveland. He opposed him in the campaign, and I for one do not think that his wishes should have any weight with us. We have as much right to our opinions as any one else, and I do not think should consult Mr. Elkins upon anything that we do. I am in favor of this convention apsointing this committee of bachelors to do. I am in favor of this convention ap-pointing this committee of bachelors to greet and kiss the bride in real old Methodist style for Deer Park and West Virginia. I move the adoption of these resolutions as they stand." A long argument followed, and when a vote was reached a majority of two decided that the President and his bride should be congratulated. The chair then appointed a committee, consisting of J. Engle, T. L. Baum gardner, R. B. Evans, K. C. Kurtz and J. H. Hordesley. The conference then ad-journed, and the committee held their meeting and drafted a letter to the Presi-dent, embodying the resolution. This was dispatched by special messenger, but up to 7 o'clock to-night they had received no ans-wer, and it is not expected that they will.
